

Madison Keller

Product Development Engineer, Printpack

Madison is a Product Development Engineer at Printpack, a leader in flexible and specialty rigid packaging with headquarters in Atlanta, GA. During her time at Printpack, she has supported large CPGs with a focus on salty snack and bar packaging. Madison has worked on developing new to market compostable, paper, and all-polyethylene structures for multiple applications and customers. She also has previous experience working in food processing, manufacturing, and quality with The Kraft Heinz Company and Publix Manufacturing. Madison holds both a B.S. and M.S. in Biological Engineering with a focus in Packaging Engineering and Food Science from the University of Florida.